

The £200 billion generation game: Can the electricity market deliver our energy policy goals?

Thursday 15 April 2010

Royal Society, 6-9 Carlton House Terrace, London SW1Y 5AG

08.45 Registration and refreshments

The £200 billion investment challenge

- 09.30 Introduction
David Porter, Chief Executive, Association of Electricity Producers
- 09.40 An energy company perspective
Sara Vaughan, Director of Regulation and Energy Policy, E.ON UK
- 10.00 A financier's perspective
Stephen Vaughan, Managing Director, Rothschild
- 10.20 A customer perspective
Jeremy Nicholson, Director, Energy Intensive Users Group
- 10.40 Questions
- 10.55 Morning coffee

Can the electricity market take the strain?

- 11.20 Can the market deliver our energy policy goals?
Simon Skillings, Director, Trilemma UK
- 11.50 The impact of 1/3 renewables by 2020
Stephen Woodhouse, Director, Pöyry Energy Consulting
- 12.20 Delivering the low carbon grid
Duncan Burt, Head of Customer Services, Transmission, National Grid

12.50 Lunch

Time for a change...?

14.00 Strengthening the carbon price
Tony White, Director, BW Energy

14.30 The electricity market – options for reform
Graham Shuttleworth, Director, NERA Economic Consulting

15.00 Networking break

15.25 Panel response and floor discussion
Dan Lewis, Chief Executive, Economic Policy Centre
Tony Ward, Partner, Power & Utilities, Ernst & Young
Graham Shuttleworth; Tony White

16.30 Conclusions
David Porter, Chief Executive, Association of Electricity Producers

16.40 Close

Association of Electricity Producers
Charles House
5-11 Regent Street
London SW1Y 4LR

Tel: +44 (0)20 7930 9390
Fax: +44 (0)20 7930 9391
email: enquiries@aepuk.com www.aepuk.com

aep
Association of Electricity Producers